MEMBERS OF BOARD OF INVESTIGATION

One From England, Russia and France.

Russia Will Be Satisfied With Result—A Danish Shipments of Jap Ships.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS

London, Oct. 31. Reports current relative to the board of inquiry into the North Sea affair, will consist of one Russian, one English and one French of high position. This report is not considered as final, but it is thought likely that two persons from two smaller powers may be added to the list.

INTERCEPT COLLIERIES.
Gibraltar, Oct. 31. The British fleet has been ordered to patrol the straits and intercept all British colliers and bring them here. It is also ordered to escort all mail boats.

ENGLISH CABINET MEETS.
London, Oct. 31. The cabinet will meet this afternoon to consider points in the inquiry into the North Sea affair.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31. Whatever may be the finding of the international tribunal which is to investigate the firing on the British trawlers by the Baltic squadron it can be said with practical certainty that Admiral Rozhdestvensky will not go east in command of the fleet.
There is good reason to believe that he already has asked to be relieved from the command, and while his request possibly will not be granted until after the present trouble has been finally passed upon, there is little doubt but that his recall will be granted.

Russia will go into the arbitration in perfect good faith, and if the court decides that any of his officers, no matter who they may be, have been guilty of action demanding punishment, the necessary punishment will be promptly inflicted. The czar, however, is firmly convinced of Rozhdestvensky's good faith and is confident of his ability to prove it.
Admiral Skrydloff may be called home
from Vladivostok to succeed Rozhdest-vensky.

THIS MAN "SAW THINGS."
Paris, Oct. 31. The Petit Journal's
London (France) correspondent says:
"The captain of a Danish schooner,
which has arrived from the North Sea, declares that when he was forced to put in at an English port owing to the stress of weather, he saw steam trawlers taking Japanese and explosive aboard, openly."

ENGLAND'S REPRESENTATIVE.
London, Oct. 31. General Belloun, president of the board of trade, has appointed Admiral Sir Cyprian Bridge and Ritter Aspinall to conduct the North Sea inquiry at Hull.

SHELLED BRITISH COLLIER.
Belfast, Oct. 31. The Frankforter Zeitung has a dispatch from Tangiers saying that officers of the Baltic fleet there admit that while coming to Tangier they shelled a British collier carrying no lights. The result of the bombardment is unknown.

MISTOOK HIS OWN VESSELS.
London, Oct. 31. The possibility that Admiral Rozhdestvensky fired on his own torpedo boats in the North Sea, mistaking them for Japanese, is obtaining increasing credence in London, and on the continent this view is taken in several of the papers which seem to be leaving the theory.

iness church.

At Wrightsville, Pa., Rev. S. H. Ross, Dunkard, dropped dead while delivering field, is in the city today on business.

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN MEMPHIS TODAY

Continental Bank Building Collapsed This Morning.

Many Were Hurled Out Several Were Taken Out Alive.

SOME MAY BE DEAD

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 31. The big bank four-story Continental building at No. 19 Madison street, containing twenty or more occupants, collapsed this morning. It was an office structure.
The collapse was caused by the foundations becoming weak from excavations on the adjoining lot for the fifteen story Tennessee Trust building.

Eight persons have been recovered, all alive, but several are thought to be dead
in the ruins.
Those rescued are: Frank D. M.
Schas, president of Continental Savings bank. Mr. Schas was not injured, but appeared to be dazed, probably from the effect of a blow upon the head.

Frank Baum, cashier, of the same bank, uninjured.

Charles Demosberg, teller of the same bank, leg badly injured.

J. W. Stotts, of Stotts, Dean & Co.,

JAP MINISTER

Is in a Serious Condition in New York.

Was Operated on Yesterday for Appendicitis.

New York, Oct. 31.—An operation for appendicitis was performed on Japanese Minister Kogoro Takahara in his hotel yesterday.

The case is said to be serious, and at times of the Japanese legation at Washington have been summoned to his bedside.

Mr. Takahara arrived from Washington on Friday night, and immediately after being assigned to a room at the hotel complained of illness and asked that a physician be sent for.

The disease was positively diagnosed as appendicitis and an immediate operation was decided on.

This morning it was stated that Minister Kogoro Takahara is holding his own, and doing as well as could be expected. His condition, however, is considered very serious and he cannot be pronounced out of danger for three days,
at least.

NO SETTLEMENT

MANAGER ENGLISH IS STILL IN HENDERSON, KY.

Manager James E. English, of the Kentucky, who has had a disagreement at Henderson with the resident manager of his new theatre, may remain several days longer, as at last accounts nothing had been done towards reaching an agreement, but something was expected to happen at any time. It is understood that Mr. English has now in possession of his friends all the stock except the $5,000 owned by Resident Manager Hudson, which gives him control. The only thing is whether or not Hudson's contract entitles him to remain as manager.
There has been talk of one faction laying out the other, but no developments are reported since last week.

Dr. Della Caldwell returned from Hickman today at noon, where she had been called on professional business.

Mr. Frank Baskette went to Greenville, Ky., today at noon on business.

Attorney D. H. Hughes went to Henderson today at noon on business.

THE HAGUE MEETING SUBJECT OF A NOTE

Secretary Hay Has Sent to Our Representatives.

The Object of President Roosevelt's Recent Suggestion Is Detalled.

TO CONSIDER ARBITRATION

Washington, Oct. 31. In a circular note Secretary Hay has carried out the president's instructions relative to proposing a second Hague conference. The note not only contemplates resending of The Hague conference for the consideration of questions specifically mentioned by the original conference as demanding further attention, such as the rights and duties of the neutral, the inviolability of private property in naval warfare and the bombardment of forts by a naval force, but goes further by enclosing a project of a general system of arbitration treaties and the establishment of an international congress to meet periodically in the interests of peace.

The issuance of the call while the present war is in progress is justified
by the fact that the first Hague conference was called before any treaty of peace with Spain was concluded.

The note is addressed to the representatives of the United States accredited to the governments' signatures to the acts of The Hague conference of 1889, with the request that they confer thereupon with the foreign ministers of the various states.

The note first reviews the objects and results of the first Hague conference and then gives great credit to the interpar-liamentary union which was started from a suggestion of a member of the British house of commons in 1888. He reviews its valuable work toward peace and the result of its recent meeting at St. Louis, quoting the resolution there asking that President Roosevelt call a second Hague conference for consideration of certain questions therein quoted.

In regard to the war between Russia and Japan the note suggests that
"the fact of existing war is no reason why nations should relax the efforts
they have so successfully made heretofore toward the adoption of rules of conduct which may make more remote the chances of future wars between them."

WORLD'S FAIR ATTENDANCE.

Mr. William Parham, the coal dealer, returned from Mayfield today at noon.

EXCITING TIMES

Debates are Fought With Excitement.

President Threatened With Personal Violence.

Madrid, Oct. 31. Prolonged and intense scenes have occurred in the chamber of deputies during the debate on proposals for the presentation of certain deputies. When the discussion was resumed Saturday the disorders consequent on the oppositions obstructive tar-ties compelled the suspension of the sitting and the appointment of a secret committee to give judgment concerning insults exchanged during the debate.

The sitting was subsequently resumed.
The opposition repeatedly demanded roll calls on votes and the proceedings were interrupted and disorderly. The president, being threatened with personal violence,
had to be protected by clerks and attendants. The crucifix behind the president's chair was overturned by blows of sticks; all writing material on adjacent desks was swept to the floor, and ink stands were tipped over. The president, however, was not injured. In the evening, declaring he would not leave until the sitting adjourned, which did not begin till late this evening.

It is reported that Premier Maura will suspend strikes and ask the chamber of deputies for a vote of confidence.

A PANAMA RESIGNATION.

Panama, Oct. 31. The resignation yesterday of Thomas Arias, secretary of state of the Republic of Panama, apparently ends the division of political parties here. Pablo Arce, leader of the opposition, said:

"Opposition to President Amador's government is impossible now."

It is reported that Santiago Guardia, minister to Costa Rica, will replace Arias.

Capt. J. E. Mason has gone to Fred
Springs for a two months' stay.

ACTIVE FIGHTING AGAIN RESUMED

Japanese Bombarded a Portion of the Russian Line.

The Soldiers Camp Within a Short Distance of Each Other in Places.

NO GENERAL ENGAGEMENT

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—A dispatch received today from Gen. Sakharoff reports that yesterday's early quiet ended in the bombardment of the Russian right by Japanese yesterday evening. The dispatch reads: "We repulsed the Japanese attack on our entrenchments north of Lushin. The Japs bombarded our right throughout yesterday evening."

SOME NIGHT ATTACKS.

Tokio, Oct. 31.—A report from the Mandchurian army headquarters records
a successful night attack against a Russian outpost at Wundungtan and two unsuccessful counter attacks made by the Russians. The report follows:

"On the night of Oct. 28, a small force of the enemy attacked Wundungtan mountain, but were immediately repulsed.
On the night of Oct. 29, a detachment of infantry was dispatched from the center army against Wundungtan town. The enemy was surprised and houses occupied by the enemy set on fire. Wundungtan is situated midway between the outposts of both armies.
Using the place as a base, the enemy made frequent night attacks against our outposts."

"On the night of Oct. 28, a force of the enemy of unknown strength attacked the eminence near Santakangtan,
but was immediately repulsed."

ONLY DESULTORY FIGHTING.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31. Gen. Kuro-patkin has telegraphed under date of Oct. 29:

"I have received today no dispatch reporting encounters with the enemy. During a cavalry reconnaissance yesterday after an infantry fight supported by artillery we occupied the village of Chant-suthman. The enemy has retired from Sindapin. On Oct. 28, our chasseurs, with insignificant losses, regained a village a kilometer west of Chentlapin against a violent Japanese bombardment."

Gen. Kuropatkin also records other outpost affairs, including the Russian recapture of the village of Tyusina, a short distance south of Lushin, where they had previously been expelled
by the Japanese, who burned the village.

WAITING FOR STORM TO BREAK.

Mukden, Oct. 31.—There have been a number of skirmishes along the whole front, but no development of any serious import has yet appeared. Though the armies are in the closest touch and a general engagement may be precipitated at any time. At one point the trenches are only 400 yards apart. They are separated by a small stream which is the only water supply in the neighborhood.
By consent there is no firing on water carriers, who visit the stream with buckets.

Several positions have already changed hands many times.

Yesterday was unusually quiet along the whole front. The Russians are in the habit of harassing the Japanese in the trenches at night. Saturday night Russian scouts threw a hand grenade into a Japanese trench near Sindapin, causing great confusion.

THIRD ATTACK ON PORT ARTHUR.

Chefoo, Oct. 31.—The third general attack on Port Arthur began Oct. 21. On Oct. 26 Japanese shells set fire to the only smokeless powder magazine in Port Arthur. Portions of the town caught fire, the conflagration continuing the whole day. On Oct. 26 the Japanese captured Russian trenches on the slope of Rihlung mountain, also a fortified position protecting that fortress. The Japanese hold the progress of the siege
to be highly satisfactory.

NEARING HIS FINISH.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—The military situation has not developed anything of great importance, though the fight at the Buddhist temple hill on Oct. 24, appears to have been a decided heavy engage-

The Hague, Oct. 31.—The remains of former President Kruger, of the Transvaal republic, who died in July, were taken to Rotterdam today, for conveyance to South Africa, aboard the steamer Batavia.

ROBBED A CAR.

Paris, Oct. 31. The mail car of the Brest Express, was robbed yesterday and the mail bags were ripped open and the contents stolen. No arrests were made.

THROWN INTO COKE OVEN.

Musontown, Pa., Oct. 31.—Steve Bork employed at the Bessemer coke plant, reported to the authorities today that late last night he saw a man thrown into a coke oven and cremated. Bork says he saw three men scuffling on top of an oven, and a moment later saw two of them jump to the ground and disappear in the darkness. Just then flames issued from the oven as though fuel had been tossed into it. Former Bork today ordered the oven damped, when blackened human bones and teeth were found. The murdered man and his assailants are unknown.

ment. It probably indicates that dual moves on both sides are now occurring preparatory to another long and serious battle.

Vicenty Alexoff is now on his way to St. Petersburg. The nature of his reception is food for much speculation.
Some of his friends still cling to the idea that he will be made chamberlain of the empire with his residence in the Winter palace, where, it is said, a suite of apartments has already been prepared for him. On the other hand, many declare that his political career is over and that his reception at St. Petersburg, while officially cordial, will make the end of his political ascendancy. It is rumored that the vice-mayor of the Caucasus will be reviled for his special benefit, which would constitute a complimentary and comfortable sort of exile.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—Sunday passed quietly at the front. The Japanese forces, apparently, have some more on foot but its exact object is unknown. A flanking movement is daily expected.

A MINERULES SEVERAL.

Nagasaki, Oct. 31. A mine exploded in Mogi harbor yesterday while being carried ashore from the steamer Dami-chay Oda Maru. The steamer was badly damaged and ten of the crew were killed or injured.

RUSSIAN-BELGIAN TREATY.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—Russia and Belgium have signed a treaty which makes it obligatory that all matters which come up for discussion between the two signatory nations, be submitted to arbitration.

JAPS BEING REINFORCED.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31. Gen. Kuro-patkin reports Japanese reinforcements from the south and Frank Wan Ching from whence it may be concluded that the enemy is completing grouping its forces for taking the offensive. The enemy is moving from west to east.

A HEAVY BOMBARDMENT

Mukden, Oct. 31.—From an early hour
this morning there has been heavy bombardment of Pandolf and "Lone Tree"
hill by the Japanese.

NEARING PORT ARTHUR.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—Gen. Stepanov, commander of Port Arthur, reports that the Russians repulsed an attack on the North front Oct. 16, and adds: "The enemy is approaching our forts by an entrenchment drawn very close to the outside defenses. Our troops are fighting heroically, notwithstanding difficulties and privations."

TORMENTING RHEUMATISM

Columbus, Ohio, May 20, 1903.
Six years ago I had a severe attack of inflammatory Rheumatism. I was laid up in bed for six months, and the doctors I had did me no good. They changed medicines every week and nothing they prescribed seemed to help me. Finally I began the use of S. S. S. My knee and elbow joints were swollen terribly, and at one time my joints were so swollen and painful that I could not close them when opened. I was so bad that I could not move knee or foot. I was getting discouraged, you may be sure, when I began S. S. S., but as I saw it was helping me I continued it, and to-day I am a sound well man and have never had a return of the disease. S. S. S. purified my blood and cured me of this severe case of Rheumatism after everything else had failed. I have recommended it to others with good results.
R. H. CHAPMAN.
1355 Mt. Vernon Ave.

The poisonous acids that produce the inflammation and pain are absorbed into the blood and Rheumatism can never be conquered till these are neutralized and filtered out of the blood and system. S. S. S. goes directly into the circulation and attacks the disease itself. It purifies and stores the blood for a healthy, vigorous condition. It contains no potash, alkali or other strong minerals, but is guaranteed entirely vegetable. Write us and our physicians will advise you without a charge whatever. Our book on Rheumatism sent free.

SOME RAILROAD YARNS.

Captain Pat Halloran, an old time railroad conductor, and baggage man William Flowers, who ran on the roads in his earlier days as baggage men, met in the Illinois Central baggage room yesterday and were swapping yarns about their experiences.

Mr. Flowers is celebrated over the whole system for his strict adherence to the rules of his company, and while he is civil and accommodating to everyone as far as the rules of the road permit, he is not liked by those who at tempt to "skit" railroads.

Captain Halloran bore the same reputation as a conductor when he was running on the road, and this is what made both men valuable to the road.

"The most singular request I ever heard of," Mr. Flowers reminiscently remarked, "was on the south end of the road many years ago, when passenger coaches were run on freight trains as accommodation trains. People had queer ideas of the word 'accommodation,' and one time our train was flagged at a little station too small to hold a store, and when the train stopped and the conductor went out to help an old woman on the train, she explained that it was not her intention to ride but she merely wanted the conductor to buy her a spool of No. 3 black thread and throw it off on her return, explaining that her duties would not permit her to make the trip for such a small article when he could throw it off just as easy. Well, the conductor after a few caustic remarks, started his train off.

"Two women said as he mounted the steps: 'I thought this was an accommodation train!'"

Captain Halloran was transferred to the south end of the road and took the Covington and Memphis accommodation run. The people had been in the habit of getting off at Memphis and doing shopping, and if their work was not finished in time for the train, the preceding conductor would wait fifteen or ten minutes. This got the people in the habit of overstaying their time but they always were waited for.

"When I took the run," Captain

Halloran explained, "I told the passengers the first trip out that my train was scheduled to leave at a certain time and if they were not on hand, they would get left. At first I had the entire traveling public down on me, but after several got left the people began to see that I meant business and complaint gradually ceased and I trained the people up to recognize the running schedule.

"There were several traveling men who attempted to impose on the road and did so on every opportunity, and one of these was a Mayfield drummer who would have any where from 200 to 400 pounds excess baggage. He would wait until a few minutes before train time and then come running into the baggage room and in a fluster and hurry would ask that his baggage be checked. He would give the baggage men, who would not take time to weigh the baggage, about 200 pounds short of his real excess, and would charge the entire amount to his expense account and pocket the rest. I suspected this and a few times that my train was held for his baggage to be checked served to put me on my guard. Look here, Tommie, I said to him, I can't have my train wait for you and the next time you come late I will leave your baggage and have it weighed and the real excess charged. He fretted and fumed and finally threatened to report me. Well, I left his baggage several times and pretty soon Tommie came up with the clean thing and besides the improved schedule time, the road got all coming to it in the way of excess baggage."

"I had a flagman with me named Mike Claire," Captain Halloran continued, "who observed the rules of the company with the same respect I did. The waiting room at Memphis was small in those days and on a cold morning the porter would get in late and would not have a fire going before train time. There was always a fire in the coach but Mike kept the door closed until within 40 minutes of leaving time. Often there would be many passengers on the platform waiting about to keep warm, and one morning I asked Mike why he didn't open the door.

"Well, Mr. Halloran," he explained, "the rules say that the doors must not be opened until within 40 minutes of leaving time, and I am going to stick to the directions of the rules." I told him to do so and from this time on he was known among the traveling men as "Mike, the man who wouldn't open the door."

"Mike was always making excuses or the road and its employees. 'Mike would be standing at the baggage depot with his hands in his pockets anxiously looking at the clock and then at the train standing ready to go out,' Mr. Halloran stated. Finally when he had heard as long as he could would admit as the waiting passengers who had not preceded him on account of the failure of the ticket agent to arrive.

"Well, gentlemen and ladies, the train is ready to go and will be leaving in a few minutes. Here is Mr. Halloran who will collect your tickets, but he isn't Mr. Dickey, the ticket agent, has not arrived. Oh, am sorry he hasn't but if I had the key I would go in and sell you the tickets myself."

"This seemed to satisfy Mike and the passengers in a good humor."

SAVED HIS LIFE.
A. W. Davenport, Wingo, Ky., writes me 14, 1902: "I want to tell you I believe Ballard's Snow Liniment saved my life. I was under the treatment of two doctors, and they told me one of my lungs was entirely gone, and the other badly affected. I also had a lump in my side. I don't think that I could have lived over two months longer. I was induced by a friend to try Ballard's Snow Liniment. The first application gave me great relief; two fifty-cent bottles cured me sound and well. It is wonderful medicine and I recommend it to suffering humanity." 25c, 50c, $1.00. IMMENSE CROWD HEARS FAREWELL Impressive Services at the First Christian Church.

Rev. Pinkerton, Who Said "Good-bye," Was Recalled By His Congregation.

WILL NOT DECIDE AT PRESENT

The First Christian church was taxed to its capacity last night at the farewell service of the Rev. W. H. Pinkerton. Chairs were in the aisles and the gallery was crowded as well, testifying to the great esteem and affection felt for Mr. Pinkerton, who closed eleven years of loving toil for good in this city. All denominational barriers were down last night, and irrespective of churches and creeds, christians and non-christians gathered to do him honor. In the altar with Mr. Pinkerton were Dr. W. E. Cave, of the First Presbyterian, Dr. T. J. Newell, of the Broadway Methodist, Dr. G. W. Perryman, of the First Baptist, and Dr. George O. Bachman, of the Cumberland Presbyterian churches, of the city, and two visiting ministers, Rev. Mr. Harly, of Nashville, Tenn., and Evangelist Hindsbeth. Some of the churches had no service, and others dismissed early for the occasion. The ministers all took part in the opening and closing service.

Mr. Pinkerton's sermon was a brief and earnest exhortation on the theme "Perfection," along the lines of practical living. He held a living Savior before a dying people and urged their lives to be more in accord with the One Perfect Life. He closed with the simple words, "The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost be with you all. Amen." These were four professions of faith at the close of the sermon.

Dr. G. W. Perryman as president of the Ministerial Association of the city, took charge of the after service which was a very able "love feast." He requested that Dr. Bachman, the secretary, read some Resolutions passed by the ministers of the city. They were as follows:

RESOLUTIONS.
Whereas, Rev. W. H. Pinkerton, who has for eleven years served as pastor of the First Christian church of this city, has tendered his resignation, with the intention of removing from our community; and

Whereas, During these eleven years he has been an honored and useful member of the Ministerial Association of Paducah;

Therefore, be it resolved, By the members of this association, that in the removal of Brother Pinkerton the association loses one of its most faithful members; whose genial friendship, wise counsel and hearty cooperation have done much toward making this Association helpful to its membership, and a blessing to our churches and the city.

Be it further resolved, That in the removal of Brother Pinkerton, the city of Paducah loses a valuable citizen, a staunch friend of morality and an efficient aid to good government; the entire community will miss the frankness and candor of this fearless man of God, and the prayers of our membership, as well as that of all God's people, will accompany him to his new field of labor.

Adopted at the regular meeting, October 24th, 1904.

G. W. PERRYMAN, President.
GEORGE O. BACHMAN, Secretary.

A standing endorsement of these resolutions was asked from the congregation, and was heartily responded to.

Short but feeling testimonies from the ministers followed. Dr. Cave, who was here when Mr. Pinkerton came, spoke of their work together and said good words. Dr. Newell, Dr. Bachman, and Dr. Perryman each spoke, and bore testimony to him as a man, a minister of God and a citizen, and of his brotherly welcome to them when they came into the city. Much emotion was evoked during these talks by Mr. Pinkerton's devoted membership, and his response was marked by deepest appreciation and feeling.

Mr. Oscar Starks, of the First Christian church, then moved that the congregation recall Mr. Pinkerton, which motion was put to the congregation by the chairman of the official board, Judge Berry, and adopted by a rising vote of the church.

There is a general hope that Mr. Pinkerton will accede to this most complimentary demand of his church, as he is one of the most universally popular ministers Paducah has ever had. He will take no action at present, as he leaves this week to hold a revival meeting for which he has had an engagement for some time.

BOARD OF HEALTH

A Mild Call-Down for the Hopkinsville Board.

State Organization Threatens a Quarantine Because of Smallpox.

Despite the report from the members of the county board of health of Christian county that in their opinion the smallpox situation was well under control, the state board of health, which met at the Galt House yesterday afternoon ordered Dr. J. H. Jackson, of Hopkinsville, who is chairman of the board of health in Christian county, to hold weekly meetings of his board until the state board is satisfied that all danger is passed, says the Courier-Journal of yesterday. Christian county has been infected with the disease for the past six months, and it has spread to neighboring counties. While the situation is not one to give cause for undue alarm, the state board feels that the disease should be thoroughly stamped out before winter sets in.

The number of cases reported is not large, but they come from widely separated communities in the county, showing that the disease has been general. The county has a large colored population, and it is known that many of the cases have been hid from the officials and never reported. This has made it difficult to stop its progress.

Dr. McCormack, Bowling Green, president of the state board, said last night that the board would insist upon vaccination and isolation of smallpox patients. "We do not wish to be compelled to quarantine the county, but if smallpox is not soon stamped out there it may be necessary to take action of this sort."

"The drought has had very little influence upon the general health of the state, and only in a few districts where the wells and springs are very low, its effect is shown in the few cases of typhoid fever which have been reported. In the whole the health of the people throughout the state is very good."

Dr. F. T. Eisenmann, state veterinarian, has been having a busy time, owing to the prevalence of "black leg" among the cattle, especially in Christian and Hart counties.

Yesterday's meeting was attended by every member of the board, and the first examination of applicants under the new law was held.

"Some of them got very good grades," said Dr. McCormack, "while others got the other kind. It will be a matter of personal ability, as every applicant must take the examination whether or not he has a diploma."

GROCERY AFIRE

Bulger's Grocery and Dr. Troutman's Office Damaged.

Blaze in Mechanicsburg About 10 P. M. Does Considerable Damage.

The grocery of Mr. Pete Bulger and the office of Dr. J. S. Troutman, located at the south end of the Third street bridge in Mechanicsburg, were partially burned last night about 10 o'clock.

The fire was discovered and an alarm sent in. Departments Nos. 2 and 4 responded and soon had the blaze extinguished. The fire originated in the rear of the grocery from causes unknown, as there had been no fire about the store in that portion. The fire burned the rear of the grocery and scorched the office of Dr. Troutman. The water did the greatest damage, which will amount to a total of $350, it is estimated, partially covered by insurance.

Mr. Bulger estimates his damage at $400, and is not fully covered by insurance. Dr. Troutman estimates his damage, mostly by water, at $150, fully covered by insurance.

WHY APPENDICITIS?

Why is appendicitis so common today?

Because we have got into the pernicious habit of eating too fast.

Dr. Curtis, the great authority on this disease, says: "Appendicitis often follows the eating of a very hearty, or particularly large or indigestible meal."

After carefully following a foolish custom, you can insure your safety by taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

It is an accepted scientific truth, which admits of no dispute, that if you will only keep your digestive apparatus in good order, you will never suffer from this dread disease, which at best, means a weakening operation, with long weeks wasted in bed, and big doctor's and surgeon's bills to pay as conveniences.

Keep your appendix in health by the proper use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, whenever you have laid yourself open to danger by overeating, and upon the least sign of stomach or intestinal trouble, for otherwise, at any time, this dangerous disease may lay you low.

The curative influence of this great medicine is quickly shown in the gentle, soothing effect it has on all inflamed conditions of any part of the digestive tract.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets tone all these parts up to a proper condition of perfect health, and regulate their functions into a proper working state.

They also make away with all the causes of irritation, inflammation or indigestion, by helping to dissolve, digest and assimilate, or put to proper use, all the food which is lying around in old corners of your digestive apparatus, fermenting, rotting and curdling, like so much garbage in a dirty sink.

In these natural and perfectly simple ways, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets restore all sufferers, from any form of dyspeptic trouble, to health.

They are safe and reliable. They never fail to relieve and cure, quickly and permanently.

Use them, and you need never worry about your appendix again.

DESERTED CITY.

It is 2,000 Years Old But Was Once Inhabited.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 28.—A discovery has been made in the Andes mountains, 250 miles from Areano, Chilli, of a city deserted for 2,000 years, but once inhabited, presumably by Aztecs of much larger stature than those who lived in Central America, according to the story told by two men just returned from Chilli. They expect that their discovery will add to scientific knowledge of South American prehistoric races, and are now hurrying east to present the result of their researches to American and German scientists.

The discoverers of the ancient city are Prof. Emil von Burgers of Berlin, a famous archaeologist of Germany, and William J. Hemmway of New York who has spent several years exploring South American prehistoric races, and of five they have spent a year in South America on a special expedition of exploration. The deserted city was found in a small valley, reached only after weeks of hardships. It was in an excellent state of preservation, the explorers finding stone houses, supposed to have been erected twenty centuries ago, crumbling and grown over with mosses and shrubs, yet standing upright.

Ancient tools of husbandry, household implements of stone and hermetically sealed graves give evidence of a high state of civilization. A large quantity of articles are being taken east. The city comprised 1500 souls. Von Burgers believes that either drought or disease exterminated the prehistoric race, probably the latter.

A Confidence.

(From the New Orleans Picayune.)
"I sometimes feel," bitterly confided the wife of the great poet to her sister, "that I would have been happier with an organ grinder. Then we could, at least, pass the hat around unashamed. The pride that goes with great gifts of ten walks hand in hand with starvation to satisfy an ordinary woman."

Naval experts have discovered a serious defect in the battleships Ohio, Maine, Missouri, Wisconsin, Alabama and Illinois. The defect consists of the omission of the armor around the after end of the superstructure, which makes the ships vulnerable in a vital part.

NEWS OF THE RIVERS.

Mrs. Amelia M. Sebolt, the venerable widow of Captain Henry F. Sebolt, and the doubly respected mother of Captain Max Sebolt, well known in Paducah, died at her home in Glenfield near Paducah, on the 28th inst. She was in the seventy-first year of her age.

The San Brown and Enterprise reached Paducah with news of a shipwreck.

The Sheridan Kirk Company, of Madison, on Friday gave bond for $125,000 preparatory to building the government dam at Curdon's Bluffs. The company is required by law to start the work within thirty days after receiving the contract.

The guano today is again two-thirds and standing, with no prospect of a rise either above or below. The river men are nearly all idle, and the outlook is most discouraging.

The City of Charleston will arrive today from Elizabethtown and Golconda and return this afternoon.

The Royal will leave this afternoon for Smithland. She is making daily trips.

The Dick Fowler will possibly run again in the Paducah and Cairo trade, but doubtless only for another season, if at all. A good offer was made the company for the steamer, but it was wanted immediately, and this would leave the Fowler Company without a boat for the Cairo trade. It is probable the Dick will be kept another season and in the meantime a smaller boat secured.

The Lulu Warren will be here tomorrow unless something happens to prevent, and return to Tennessee river Wednesday night.

THE NEW LINE

Ballard County Will Give Free Right-of-Way.

Mr. J. J. Frendlich of Paducah, who is the head of the new river railway line to run through from Paducah to New Orleans, was in the city yesterday with Frank Stephenson and gave out some interesting facts concerning the coming of the projected line, says the Paducah News.

There seems now to be no doubt but what the much talked of line will soon be under construction. At Paducah where there was much trouble expected from the city council in granting the right-of-way, when the question was put before the council there at Thursday night's meeting the granting of the right-of-way passed that body by a unanimous vote. However, this was the first reading of the act and it will have to undergo another reading ere it becomes an ordinance. As it passed so unanimously at its first reading, it is highly improbable that it will fail to pass when the second reading takes place which will be sometime next month. Mr. Frendlich stated that the only possible obstacle that could be encountered that would deter the road from being built, would be the refusal of the people whose property the road will touch to grant them a free right of way. We can't speak for McCracken county, but we believe old Ballard's people will readily grant this enterprise free right-of-way. The approximate cost to build the road will be in the neighborhood of $800,000, and just as soon as the right-of-way is secured clear through the work of construction will be rapidly pushed.

PETTY THIEVES
ANNOY THE PEOPLE

Much Pilfering Going on Along the City.

Abbe Maroffski's Saloon Broken Into Fare Boxes on Street Car Demolished.

A FEW OTHER POLICE NOTES

Petty thieves seem to have broken loose again in Paducah, and numerous thefts of overcoats, provisions from ice boxes and pantries, bicycles, chickens and small burglaries, have been reported to the police. Another thing that is annoying the people, as well as the police, is the persistent manner in which some miscreant or miscreants are urving people's horses off.

The butchers and marketeers have complained recently of this, and it is believed that the guilty persons are boys. A few years ago several boys for several weeks made a practice of driving away horses left hitched by their owners, but were finally caught.

One butcher on the market Saturday night found about 6 o'clock that his horse had disappeared, and "land" for the person who took it away. About 8 o'clock a couple of boys came driving it into the alley near the market house. The animal had been driven until it was covered with perspiration and almost ready to fall in its tracks. The boys were shaken until their teeth rattled, and will probably not be back again for many a day.

Abbe Maroffski, the saloon keeper at Second and Kentucky Avenue, ascertained when he got up this morning about 1:30 o'clock that his cash register had been robbed. He has about $14 in it, and this, with a pistol, is all he has. The thieves seem to have entered through the kitchen up stairs, and got out the same way. It is not known whether anything except the money and pistol were taken, or not, but the police have a clue, and are at work on the case.

Sometime last night a microscopist boarded Car No. 65, which is between Second and First and Fifth streets while the tracks are torn up, and demolished both fare boxes. The thief glass was broken with a piece of iron used by shoemakers on which to hammer a shoe sole, but not a cent was secured, as no money is now deposited in fare boxes, the cars all having conductors on them. The would-be thief was doubtless someone not familiar with the well known fact that the fare boxes are not used now. The damage to the car which was standing along near the foot of Broadway at the time, will not amount to a great deal.

James Thornton is under arrest charged with malicious cutting, and Ed. Butcher is in bed painfully wounded, the result of a cutting scrape yesterday at the Benson boarding house near Third and Adams streets.

Butler four times on different portions of his body.

Thornton was arrested by Officer Dick Woods and this morning was granted a continuance until Wednesday. He is a blacksmith and will give bond. Butler is not seriously injured. He was attended by Dr. D. T. Stuart, who says he will be out in a day or two.

William Edmunds, alias William Tilley, colored, who was arrested Saturday night by Officers Goureaux and Potter as a suspect, is being held until word can be gotten from Madisonville, Ky., where the police think he is wanted.

The local authorities have a description of a negro wanted at that city for shooting at a policeman, and Edmunds answer to the description minutely and moreover confessed to another negro that he did shoot at a policeman at Madisonville or Earlinton. He denied his in the police, but is being held until the police can get some word. Yesterday the telephone exchange operators were unable to get the authorities at Madisonville and another attempt will be made today.

Dave Cassell, formerly night watchman at the local L. C. freight house, and lately acting patrol driver, has gone to work on the police force as extra officer, and is acting for Officer John McKee, who is off on his vacation this week.

MR. BROOKFORD DECLINES.

Editor of The Sun—I wish to express through you my appreciation of the nomination by the republican convention for the council.

I regret, however, that, owing to my business taking me out of the city so much, I have to decline the honor.

Very truly,
ROBERT BROOKFORD.

Tonight the library board will meet, but nothing but routine business will come before it for action.

RETIRED GENERAL

FORMER PADUOAHAN IS HERE ON A BRIEF VISIT.

General S. L. Woodward, retired, is at the Palmer House paying a several days' visit to friends here. General Woodward is a Paducah boy, whose family for years lived at Fifth and Clark streets. He served forty-two years in the army, and was recently promoted from the rank of major to that of general, and retired in pursuance to the rules governing long and honorable service. General Woodward is well known to many Paducah people, and his friends are glad to see him. He owns property in Paducah and will be here several days on his visit.

MANY APPLICANTS

COUNTY JUDGE LIGHTFOOT HAS NOT APPOINTED A CORONER.

County Judge R. T. Lightfoot, who has the appointment authority to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Coroner William Peal, has been besieged by applicants for the office. He stated this morning that many persons have spoken to him for the place but he had not decided when to make the appointment. Among those favorably mentioned is former Marshal James P. Crow.

Judge Lightfoot laughingly remarked today that for prudential reasons none of the undertakers had applied for the place. This is the first time none of the undertakers asked to be coroner.

For many years the coroner was always one of the undertakers.

Today laborers began excavating in the courthouse yard for the steam heating pipes. The street excavations have been finished up to Sixth street on Washington and it will require but little time after the excavations have been completed in the court yard before the building will be heated.

Dr. S. B. Caldwell is better today, his many friends will be pleased to learn.

Dredgers for mussel shells are now working up about the mouth of Island creek, and are making the best of the low water, their favorite season.

COST OF PHILIPPINES

Grossly Exaggerated Statements
Reiterated by Judge Parker
In Recent Speech.

Shows Narrowness or Obscurity in Repeating Previous Errors Officially Corrected.

(Washington Dispatch to the New York Tribune.)

The availing with which Judge Parker and ex-Secretary Olney swallowed the statement that the Philippines had cost this country $800,000,000 and the pertinency with which they cling to it after its falsity has been proved again and again are past the comprehension of persons in Washington who are familiar with the real conditions in the Philippines.

That the cost of the Philippines, including the $20,000,000 paid to Spain, amounted up to May 1, 1902, to $180,000,000 has been established beyond dispute. No Democratic member of either house of congress has dared to challenge Secretary Root's statement to that effect. The cost to this country for the following year has been shown to be $3,000,000, and for the year just ended $2,000,000, a total of $184,000,000. That has been the actual cost of the Philippines up to June 30, 1904.

The statement Mr. Parker permitted himself to repeat when he declared that "over 200,000 lives have been sacrificed" is equally false. The total loss of life of American troops and Filipinos in the American army from all causes has amounted to 4,017 privates and 155 officers, a total of 4,222 men. Even adding to this number the loss of Filipino insurgents, a liberal estimate of which is less than 10,000, the grand total aggregates 14,200 against Mr. Parker's 200,000. Moreover, the totals here given include deaths from wounds, sickness, drowning and other accidents, and an important contributory cause, the contagious diseases which, unrestrained, ravaged Americans and Filipinos when American occupation began. Only 120,000 American soldiers, all told, have been sent to the Philippines.

As an offset to this loss of life should be set the magnificent work of the army medical corps and of the health officers of the Philippine commission, whose unremitting efforts have stamped out the plague, reduced smallpox and other contagious diseases to a minimum and rendered the Philippines as healthful as Cuba.

That intelligent campaign speakers should voice the extravagant charges of the partisan press without taking the trouble to investigate them may not be surprising, but that men of higher standing should reiterate them, especially in the face of the testimony of high minded and unimpeachable witnesses, is a source of amazement. The popular bureau points to the interview with the Most Rev. J. J. Hart, the Roman Catholic archbishop of Manila, called from the Philippines, as indisputable evidence of existing conditions in the Philippines. Archbishop Hart's testimony agrees with that of Mr. Brent, the Episcopal bishop of Manila, who is now in this country. The archbishop, after returning from an extended tour through the islands, declared his hope that Theodore Roosevelt would be elected president of the United States and said:

"I was impressed during my journeyings by the progress of American institutions among the masses of the people, the general happiness, the security of person and property and the supremacy of order and justice. I believe that under divine guidance the beneficent rule of America is destined ultimately to place the Christian Malay race on a moral and political plane that as yet has never been attained by an oriental people. This task that the Americans have assumed they cannot shrink or abandon. This work that Governor Taft so auspiciously began and that Governor Wright continues must be carried to a triumphant conclusion."

Archbishop Hart is eminently qualified to judge of the situation. In his nine months' residence at Manila he has held exhaustive conferences with the bishops and provincial priests. He has spent months living with the people, traveling practically alone and unguarded even in the remotest provinces, inspecting parishes and visiting the people in their homes. In some of the districts he visited it had been thirty years since a bishop had been there.

Not is the testimony of these churchmen isolated. Every one who has had an opportunity to judge of conditions in the Philippines as they actually exist brings to Washington the same story of progress. The Philippine government is being judiciously administered, the people are prosperous, Christianity is thriving under the freedom of American policies, and the pernicious influence of a few excitable Filipinos of the false insinuations of Democratic candidates and speakers is now the only menace to uninterrupted peace and prosperity in the Philippines.

A Menacing Threat.
(From the Louisville Herald.)

The Democracy, by denouncing protection as robbery, has put the workman's full dinner pail, his home, his children's food, clothing and schooling, his wife and family's legitimate comforts in jeopardy. It menaces likewise the enterprise and profits of capital. It threatens a return of the stringency and stagnation of ten years ago.

PARKER A DISAPPOINTMENT.

Strained Silence Dominates His Supporters.

(From the Boston Transcript.)

It has become a common thing in New York—comment to the Republicans, but tragic to the Democrats—the behavior of Judge Parker when he comes to town. He goes to his hotel. He shuts himself up. Nobody can see him but the persons with whom he has appointments, and they tell nothing that he says. He has not spoken to the public on one of these visits nor by any chance to any one who will speak to the public. He has now been in New York nearly a dozen times since he was nominated. At first he has spent only a night, but now he stays days at a time, and he has practically taken personal charge of the campaign. He has secret audiences with men all day every day he has been here, and yet no reporter of a single paper has caught a word that he has said except two or three remarks about the weather. Nor does the public know what he does or what he says in his political conferences. At the recent reception given to him at the Manhattan club he would not speak. Such a silent candidate for the presidency not only was never heard of before, but no man would have been believed who should have said that any candidate for the presidency could be so silent. Every conceivable effort has been made to induce him to make at least one public address during the campaign. But it is given out that he is impossible in his silent resolution.

But Mr. Parker has a studied silence that is driving his supporters almost to madness, for they are beginning to ask: Is it studied? Can he not talk? Did he ever talk? Has he anything to say? Did he ever say anything that the people could understand or care to hear, his one famous telegram always excepted? The fear is creeping over them that perhaps he has nothing to say except such argumentative doctrinal things as go to make official speeches and letters of acceptance.

There is something almost stupid in this conduct. This is the talk you may now hear in disappointed Democratic circles. What's a candidate for but to make as favorable an impression as possible on the public? Especially what is the bounden duty of a silent and unknown candidate but to say something, so that the people may come to know him?

HE DOES THINGS.

A Brief Sketch of Our President's Record.

(From the Troy (N. Y.) Times.)

What President Roosevelt has done in office is so great and comprehensive as to add a new chapter to American history. In Cuba and the Philippines, in maintaining the supremacy of the United States in the affairs of the American continent, in cutting through the isthmus the canal for which a century had hoped, in defending American citizenship abroad, in purifying every department in which a taint might show, in appreciating and treating with proper respect the new conditions which the immense growth of commerce and industry established, in enforcing the law against trusts, in becoming himself the most conspicuous illustration of the superiority of arbitration to war and, while performing almost stagger the mind to contemplate, in devoting himself to such physical exercise as has been necessary to preserve his health and in continuing to be in family life a type of the head of an American household, Theodore Roosevelt has shown himself to be not only a man who does things, but who does great things and does them grandly.

Is it surprising that he should be an example for the young men of the country? Is it surprising that there is not a mother in the whole country who would not rejoice to see her boy become such a man as Theodore Roosevelt? Is it surprising that the youth of America look to their president as not only a model, but also as a chosen leader?

That decisive day in November will show that the sturdy youth of a vigorous nation rejoice in a man who does things.

Impudence and Dishonesty of Richard Olney.

(From the New York Press.)

Nothing that the Parker campaign can possibly produce from now till election day will astonish us. The limit is reached. The utmost plume of impudence has been sent. After seeing Richard Olney plot out to Theodore Roosevelt how to suppress illegal monopolies there is nothing in the way of audacity of which the Democratic campaign are incapable.

Mr. Olney refers contemptuously to the Northern Securities suit as evidence that nothing in the way of trust regulation has been accomplished. "Further than to furnish Republican orators something to talk about."

There remain the facts, candidly admitted by the chief Parker organ in New York city, that—

"The first effort to enforce the law was made by Theodore Roosevelt, a Republican president." (After President Cleveland had let the law lie in a dead letter on the statute books during his last term.)

"The first attorney general to vigorously prosecute offenders and to test the law was a Republican attorney general, Philander C. Knox." (After Richard Olney, a Democratic attorney general, had pretended that the law was unconstitutional and would not prosecute its violators.)

FATHOMS DEEP

(Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure.)

One day as we of the American brig Sally were cutting in a whale to the north of St. Helena the English bark Empress came up from the south, and the two craft remained in company for three or four hours. The Empress had been out of port forty days without a capture, and crew and captain were disgusted. More than that, she had been through a severe gale and had three men hurt and had lost sails and topmasts. Captain Travers was a fine seaman and an old whaler, but the Empress had not even yet lowered for a whale.

Two weeks later, just after we had got in another whale and scrubbed our decks and while we were under easy sail to the south of the island, we lowered for a school of whales and got two.

We were making our captives fast to the ship when the Empress came down on us from the east. She was now fifty-four days out, and all luck still pursued her.

As I was third mate of the Sally, I had opportunity to discover the state of feeling aboard the bark. Her crew was on the verge of mutiny, and Captain Travers had become alarmed for the safety of his ship.

He had been aboard us for a couple of hours talking things over when a monster whale broke water within a half mile of the two craft. We put the man aboard of his ship as soon as possible, but long enough before he reached her his mates had lowered and were away.

There were those aboard the Empress who said that it was the same whale which had been met with before and had escaped them. At any rate, he had a harpoon sticking in him and was badly lanced up in a line. He was rolling on the surface when both boats came up and made fast at the same moment. For twenty seconds after being struck the monster did not move a fin. Then he started off with a rush and made a complete circle around both ships, leaving such a wake behind him that there were times when we lost sight of the boats in the foam.

Having completed the circle, the leviathan slewed about until he was head-on to the first mate's boat. He lay for a moment, swinging his lower jaw to right and left in a vicious way, and then made a rush. The boat at tempted to shoot ahead and avoid him, but he caught her amidships with a swing of that terrible jaw and left only fragments behind as he headed between the two ships and went off to the south. The second mate's boat was obliged to cut loose to pick up the other crew, but three men, one of whom was the chief mate, had lost their lives.

When the extent of the calamity became known aboard the Empress open mutiny resulted. The men demanded that she head away for Bristol, and two hours later she was homeward bound. Never did a more disgruntled crew reach port. The owners at once removed Captain Travers from command and gave him a land name, and the crew had to dodge to escape arrest for their mutiny. The bark laid up for three months until the affair had passed out of public mind, and she was then prepared for another cruise. The new commander was named Thorndyke, and on leaving port he told the owners that he would return with a full ship or not at all.

We in the Sally were cruising east and west, taking a whale occasionally, when the Empress came down on us for the third time. She had made the trip from Bristol without sighting a spot. Two days later we sighted her again. Neither craft had raised a whale mean while, but as we were passing each other within a quarter of a mile and exchanging signals a mighty leviathan broke water within a cable's length of the bark. He was so close to her that we had no show and did not lower. He was a fine whale, and we no sooner had him under our glasses than we knew him to be a fighter. He had a half dozen scars on his head, and the way he rolled about showed his temper. As he was head-on to us, he must have seen both the ships as well as the boats, but he made no move until one of the boats was close upon him and ready for a dart.

The boat had made a half circle to get out of his line of vision and approach him broadside on, but he heard the approach and indulged in a strange maneuver. Few men ever saw a whale back water, and there are plenty of old whalers who contend that he cannot. This whale, however, backed a distance of 100 feet, and with amazing swiftness, too, and striking the boat with his dukes, he killed four men and reduced her to a hulk.

Then he started straight for the Empress, and his rush was that of an avalanche. He was under the full view of her crew, but the ship was lying to and therefore perfectly helpless. Had she been a steamer instead of a sailing vessel she could not have avoided that rush. On the Sally every man of us had his eyes on the whale when he struck the Englishman on the port bow, and we plainly heard the crash of planks and timbers.

After the shock he backed off and settled down and was seen no more, but in ten minutes the Empress was at the bottom of the sea. Not a man saved even an extra jacket. There was scarce time for them to lower their boats when the bark pitched head on for a grave on the bottom a mile below, and the story of her ill luck was finished at last.

Peru, Ind., Man Says He Goes With Feet Unclad for Comfort.

Logansport, Ind.—With the collar of a heavy winter coat tucked high about his neck to protect that portion of his anatomy from the fast falling temperature, Joseph Williams, who said his home was in Peru, mingled with the crowds on Logansport streets, his feet as unprotected as on the day of his birth.

His pedal extremities, minus any covering whatever, attracted not a little attention and comment.

Williams was apparently unconscious that his wardrobe was depicted. Many were at first inclined to believe that he was taking the Kneipp consumption treatment, but his robust physique dispelled that theory. When asked his reasons for going without shoes he made the statement that he did so for comfort and economy rather than for style. He said that the spike heel variety he left for his home in the evening by the traction route.

"Look you"—He broke off and pointed with his stick where a couch bowed near High street. It was richly furnished and bore arms on its panels. On the cushions, expensively dressed in a white uniform, sat a blooming, military-looking man with bushy wavy hair and a cocked hat.

"This M. Plarue," said the Quaker. "These French parasites with powder to peddle, toward Joseph, would joy to see the colonies plunged into bloody strife. They would button on our extremity, for whosoever the colonies is, there the eagles begeth together."

"Trench officers," ejaculated Galloway. "Ay, or adventures! As like to be one another. Mayhap M. Plarue goes to see the precious curio, whose unwelcome the town gapes about."

"He is to be received?" "Tis an open secret. Notice was sent the house this morning."

"Twas averted in the street but now that he is come from Louis XVI." "Let them jabber!" grumbled Galloway. "Little sense is to be seen by these fine fellows. I heard one when the Frenchman came to the congress last November. You heard of that, mayhap. There was the same excitement, a committee appointed, too. I remember, John Jay was upon it. They met the personage in a room in Carpenter's hall, and what think you they found? Why, a little old frog under a tablecloth, who when they asked him for his authority drew his hand across his throat, and says he, 'Gentlemen, I shall take care of my head.' That was all they could get out of him. Some false tale, eh? And even then there were those who saw great signs in it. A post on all such, say I?"

The Quaker shook his head doubtfully. "Yet there is much to be learned from this present message," he said. "I heard it was good authority some months ago that a French marquis was to come hither. T'was said Benjamin Franklin had written of the matter from London. Mayhap this is the same."

"Hush!" cried Galloway. "Tis almost dark. The faith that is put in such a sign and empty hope. I do know that half the delegates have some folly in their heads. The declaration is to be offered for signing tomorrow, and, look you, it is in the hands of some members to retard action upon it, helping such a message from France may bolster faint hearts."

"Then don't think they will sign, then?" "Good for 'em!" rejoined Galloway fervently. "I cannot believe we are so near madness as that. And yet I would that I might have heard of a message from France. Methinks tomorrow will be warm. Good night to you, Mardian."

As the two friends talked the chimneys had clunged from their church, and just as the tones sounded a stout truncheon old man with a shrewd, simple face under a broad hat lifted the latch of a nearby gate which barred an old green yard from the street.

Thereon under a mulberry tree where yellow candle butters were hanging wings a childly woman was sitting by a table whereon stood some books and a glass bottle containing a two-headed snake in spirits. Two tumbled children rolled and romped under her feet. The floor of twilight was falling from a cooling sky.

"You are late, father," the woman said as the old man greeted her. "Supper is almost ready. Young Mr. Jefferson has sent word that he will be here this evening. I do hope," she added good naturedly, "that you won't all up all night again over that tiresome paper he is writing. Lave! One would think it had been a real speech."

She ran to fetch a dish of tea, and her father sat down in his chair and took off his hat. His head was bald with a fringe of white hair. He was mopping his forehead with a large kerchief when she returned with the tea.

"Bless me!" she said as the gate clicked. "Here is some one to see you already. A young man and handsome," she whispered, as he came nearer. "But how pale!" It was Armand.

"Is this Dr. Franklin?" he inquired. "Hush!"

"Sir," said Armand, "a packet was given secretly into your hands to hold for me some time since, sealed with a red seal bearing four lions."

Dr. Franklin drew his brows together with a glance of surprise and shook his head.

"Surely you have received it?" "There was a curious rumor of anxiety in the time that caused Dr. Franklin to glance sharply at his questioner. The scrutiny satisfied him, for the look of suspicion that had been attended by the strenuous times faded into his habitual benevolence.

"I recall none such," he answered gravely. "What name did it bear?" "It bore no name. The tone shook me with a confusion of apprehension."

"I fear that is all the more reason that I could not have forgot it. These are troublous days, sir, and faith not always to be relied upon. To whom did you intrust this document?"

"Something like fear had come into the other's eyes, and Dr. Franklin for the first time noted with concern his agitation and pallor."

"To a young lady of Virginia." "I am sorry, sir, deeply sorry," said the old man, "but no such packet has been put into my hands at any time."

"Fear young man?" sighed the motherly woman a few minutes later as she set the table for supper. "What think you could have been in it, father? He looked as if it had meant life or death to him."

Armand walked slowly through several side streets to the Red Lion tavern on Sussanah street, one of the less pretentious houses. Here in a dim parlor on the ground floor waited the occupant of the fine coach which had roused the other's eyes, and Dr. Franklin for the first time noted with concern his agitation and pallor.

Here in a dim parlor on the ground floor waited the occupant of the fine coach which had roused the other's eyes, and Dr. Franklin for the first time noted with concern his agitation and pallor.

"To a young lady of Virginia."

"I am sorry, sir, deeply sorry," said the old man, "but no such packet has been put into my hands at any time."

Armand walked slowly through several side streets to the Red Lion tavern on Sussanah street, one of the less pretentious houses. Here in a dim parlor on the ground floor waited the occupant of the fine coach which had roused the other's eyes, and Dr. Franklin for the first time noted with concern his agitation and pallor.

CUBAN GOVERNMENT.

Diaz Says Will Ask Admission to Union at Early Date.

Houston, Tex., Oct. 31.—In conversation with Edward F. N. Tany and Dr. S. A. Knapp, Secretary Manuel L. Diaz of the Cuban government, expressed the belief that within five years the Cuban republic would ask for admission to the United States as a state. He does not believe that there will be any trouble in securing admittance when the proper time arrives, as the Cubans have demonstrated their ability to govern themselves. They will desire the step as a means of promoting their own interests, and there will be no opposition, in the opinion of Senator Diaz.

The President Would Do and Did.

(From the Boston Pilot.)

While J. J. Roche was having a chat with President Roosevelt in the White House last week the telephone bell was ringing somewhat persistently. There being no attendant at hand the president excused himself and went to answer the repeated call. This is the conversation that took place on the line, according to the testimony of the distinguished gentleman at the president's end of it: "Well, what is it?" "Hello, is Archie there?" "No, he is not."

The Arizona Kicker

Some Lively Items From the Pen of an Editor Who Has No Fear of Anybody.

I took just four minutes the other day to give County Coroner James a first class kicking for calling us a liar, and we think the public will find him a changed and humble official.

A man named Saunders from Illinois is going to start a weekly paper called the Eagle at Lone Jack. If Mr. Saunders can shoot two handed and bang good teeth like a grizzly bear he may succeed, but if not his Eagle will lose its tail feathers within a month.

The expense of making the postoffice in this town bullet proof has all been borne by us and not by the government. Uncle Sam simply puts us in charge and expects us to take care of ourself. The cost was $65, but we don't begrudge it.

An president of the common council we keep a gun on our desk during each session, but it is more for ornament than use. Since Alderman Phinegan resigned there has been no disturbance we could not quiet with a yell.

Mr. Thomas Jackson, who posed as a terror from Terrorville, left town suddenly last Tuesday night and will probably not return. If this month his eye he will be delighted to know that he was fifteen minutes ahead of the vigilance committee.

We understand that Colonel Randall's cowboys hung a stranger one day last week for horse stealing, and two hours after he was dead they discovered that he was an innocent man. Such mistakes are inseparable from a strenuous life and should not be made too much of.

It is our regular day for lying about the circulation of the Kicker, and we therefore proceed to announce that the figures have reached 4,500,000 and are jumping along like a jackass rabbit pursued by a pack of wolves. If this thing keeps up for another year we shall have to buy another hand press and hire another boy.

We do not like to criticize any action of our esteemed contemporary, feeling rather to pity than condemn him, but we wish he would be consistent.

He is howling just now for a war with China, and the reason thereof is because the local Chinese laundries refuse to wash his shirts and trust him for the pay.

The editor of the Kicker travels occasionally, and all reports floating around to the effect that he blows out the gas in his room at hotels or is ever ready to buy gold bricks at a bargain are simply canards emanating from jealous minded contemporaries.

Mr. Williams, the hunting proprietor of the Green Front drug store, has had the misfortune to kill another Chinaman by giving him arsenic in place of salts. This is the third case within a year, we believe, and the druggist has the sympathy of the public. We all understand that no one can hustle in this country without leaving a dead man here and there on the trail.

The position of city marshal is vacant again through the resignation of Jim Adams. Jim declined after being wounded five times that there was too much shooting for the salary of $12 per week. Applicants for the place will file their names at the mayor's office. No cross eyed men taken, and all applicants will be required to pull a gun and open fire inside of four seconds.

Gelling Back. "Our competitor now has all his packages marked 'Beware of Imitations,'" said the senior partner of the new firm. "That's a slap at us." "Well, we'll get back at him," replied the junior partner. "We'll have all our packages marked 'Beware of the Genuine.'"—Philadelphia Press.

Eccentric. Kitty—Oh, mummy, I am so happy! Harney says there's nobody in all the world like me. Aunt Jane—Nonsense! You're not so eccentric as all that, although there's no denying you are a bit odd.—Boston Transcript.

He Knew It. "Crude petroleum is good for the hair," said Barlow. "I know it," replied Mullins. "Since the general use of oil as an insect eradicator the mosquitoes have begun to raise wiskers."—Judge.

It isn't necessary to have "money to burn" to buy

STURGIS COAL

Even if it is the best coal you can buy for your money.

A little of it goes a long way. Sturgis coal burns 15 per cent. longer than any other coal—because it contains no carbon.

It's the purest of soft coal, being mined in the famous Sturgis coal vein region.

It's screened three separate and distinct times before it enters your coal bin.

Use Shoffner's Sure Cure

The Great Tonic and Blood Purifier—Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and Catarrh.

It is a trite and true saying that the "blood is the life." Now where does the blood come from? Everybody knows, or should know, that it comes from the nutritive elements extracted by the stomach from the food we eat. If the digestive organs do not perform their functions by reason of disease germs, there is no nutrition extracted, and the food might better be thrown in the dump to decay and breed germs in the open air than to remain in the stomach and become a rotten, putrid mass, as it naturally does if there is no digestion. No disease germ can live and find lodgment in a human body that uses the Shoffner's Sure Cure. Price $1.00
